DROLL ACTIONS OF ANIMALS

"Man is indeed essentially funny, and in this he stands alone among created things—and dogs are only funny when they have been taught to imitate man," is the startling statement made by Sidney Dark in his book on Charles Dickens. It is certain that Mr. Dark will find many people to oppose his views among those who understand or even try to understand animals. Not only are dogs droll and comical in many of their actions and expressions, but wild animals also at times do the most amusing things.

Contrary to Mr. Dark's assertion, the one of our five dogs at this post in Northern British Columbia, that does tricks in imitation of man, is the least funny. He came to us with a bag of tricks, such as saying his prayers, sitting up, begging and so on, that have not even the saving grace of originality or usefulness. He is an Irish water spaniel. Of the others, two are red cockers, and two are dachshunds.

Just after reading Mr. Dark's statement at noon today, I chanced to look out of the window. There in the snow's and the younger alfalfa. He was at it and plainly he was bored. He looked up the creek, then down it, then up at the grey sky. He looked across the creek at first indifferently, then intently. There was nothing there to interest any dog, but he in-duled in a tentative bark, and looked about for results. Two dogs trotted from the big building; immediately he gave way to excited barks and tore down into the creek-bed. This move had the needed effect and at once three dogs joined him in the chase, which led, not across the creek, but had apparently forgotten that spot) but down the near bank round the bend, and up the trail home again; the older alreado running alongside, his tongue lolling vaguely, and the two diminutive cockers scrambling and panting to keep up. By this time all realized the hoax, and after a roll in the snow beset a pile of Cortwood and began burrowing for rats.

The smaller cocker, an "absurdly tiny dog known as 'the Judge' and 'the Little Old Man' because of his mature and judicious appearance, and 'garbage' because of his fondness for the tin can dump, is very amusing. Two weeks ago he was tied up, as a sick fastened loosely to his neck, the other end of the stick being tied to the ground. Being such a little dog, the knots were made ineffectually, and soon his tugging loosened them. His tracks showed he had dragged the stick up the side-hill and hidden it. The other day he came in with every evidence of a recent visit to the can dump; he was solemnly accented of him and after a deal of bawling and scraping, departed hurriedly, returning in a few minutes with the hated stick he had hidden. One could easily write pages of the amusing things that dogs have done, but test the charge of prejudice, because of our fondness for them, he laid, perhaps it were more effective to tell of a few observations of the actions of wild animals.

Back along the range near some green slides on timber line is a small basin which in the spring and early summer the goats seem to favor. One afternoon we were watching through the glasses, at about five hundred yards distance, several "nannies" with their kids. One single-legged youngster was making a determined effort to annoy his mother who was drowsing on a ledge. From a little point of rock about ten yards above her, he would descend with amazing agility, deliver a smart bang against his mother's back, and scamper back to his point of vantage. Each time he did this, his maternal parent became more "peevish," and seemed to be giving him a hard look, which, one could imagine, was returned by an impish grin from the young disturber. On the last of his sallies he met, tribulation, for many caught him napping with her head and set him skittering down the slide twenty or thirty feet.

One naturally expects the raven to be amusing. That great author (of whom Mr. Dark writes), in his "Barnaby Rudge," tells most amusingly of "Grip" and his incessant cackling. Several times the local tribe of beady-eyed ravens have teased the dogs for hours with that very noise, which without warning might change into a burlesque of an eagle's whistle, or a sea-gull's call. To vary the fun they would come to within five or six feet of the dogs' heads and flutter there in a most tantalizing manner. The sand-pipers too, take no end of fun in seeing how close they may let the dogs come before wheeling out over the water with a cheery and exasperating piping.

Who has seen the "whiskey jack" that would class him as devoid of humor? The continual quarrel between the steller jays and the red squirrels is always worth watching. Once one of these jays gave us a wonderful exhibition of solitary war, a discarded pack of playing cards he found among the chips. He arranged all the face-cards in odd patterns, moved them back and forth for a quarter of an hour, put his head to one side the better to study the effect and then, apparently fearing interference, carried them off by one back into the timber.

A bear cub's aptitude for the comic is common knowledge. In July we came unheed upon one nosing about in a dry creek bottom, and from our point of vantage fifteen feet above him on the bank, crouched to watch. Soon he stopped his aimless pawing of the gravel; his face took on a blank expression; painfully he was finding the game most uninteresting, and sitting back on his haunches, his fore-paws dangling he gave vent to a most expansive yawn. A look of serious boredom came over his fat little face. Apparently he found the day hot, the search for more food needless, in fact the very business of being a black bear cub extremely tiresome. Finally suppressed laughter from above him, ended, for us, yet further evidence that Mr. Dark was wrong.

PROVINCIAL VOTERS' LIST USED AS BASIS FOR ELECTION

IN URBAN CENTRE NAME MUST BE ON THE LIST.

Rural Voters May Vote by Declaring on Election Day.

Ottawa, Ont., September 24.—"It is important to have it clearly stated that the War Time Elections Act of 1917 has no application to the present election, as that act is dead and gone for ever, nor are the Scott Act or by-election lists of any legal force for a general election."

In this way, Alexander Smith, barrister of Ottawa, prefaces an answer to an inquiry as to what voters' lists will be used in the present general election. Mr. Smith enjoyed the privilege at the recent session of parliament of being introduced to the privy council of elections committee, of the house of commons to submit such interpretations on the Elections Act as might occur to him, with the result that the act was considerably amended.

NAME MUST BE ON LIST

Under the new Elections Act, a British subject by birth or naturalization is entitled to vote if he or she is 21 years of age, resident in Canada for one year, and in the constituency for two months at the time of the issue of the writ. In cities and towns of over 2,500 population, a person to be allowed to vote must have his or her name entered on the voters' list before election day.

In towns and villages of 2,500 or less of population and in rural municipalities, persons otherwise qualified whose names are not on the list may vote by declaring on election day they are entitled to vote, and at the same time have a voter resident in the same poll whose name is on the list swear or declare to the qualifications of the applicant.

REVISED LISTS

"When the writs are issued, lists," Mr. Smith says, "will be revised in every polling subdivision in Canada, and the basis of these lists will be the provincial lists as used in provincial elections any time within the past two years except in such provinces where, since the provincial elections, new lists have been prepared by sheriffs or municipal or other officials for, or as a basis of provincial lists. To any such provincial lists will be added names of persons now qualified, and names of non-qualified persons may be struck off. In provinces where there are no provincial lists as pointed out, then the lists are to be wholly prepared for the present election. Notices will be posted in all the polling divisions, rural and urban, setting forth the days given to the revision of the lists."

OPEN TO POLLING DAY

"The rural registrars will furnish a typewritten or hand written copy of his or her preliminary list fifteen days before polling to each candidate, and copy of the additions not later than six o'clock on the morning of the polling. The rural lists will not be printed as they are really open until the polls close election day."

"In cities, towns and villages of over 2,500 population, the revising officer, who is the county or district judge, shall provide for the printing of the lists and deliver copies to the candidates at least four days before polling."

"In this regard," Mr. Smith says, "it is well to remember that in urban municipalities names are added only by application in person, while in rural divisions the registrar adds of his or her own accord, and also will add names submitted to him if he is satisfied they are entitled to be added, and provision made for a duly qualified person to get his or her name on before the deputy returning officer on election day and to vote. There is no such provision in cities, towns or villages of over 2,500 population. In these, if a person's name is not on the list before election day, he or she cannot vote."

Work on important African railway development scheme will begin shortly in Kenya, it has been announced. The estimated cost of the new line is $10,000,000.

One Account for Two People

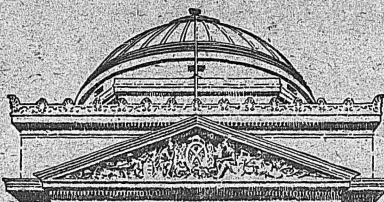

The Joint Bank Account is a home convenience. It may be opened in the names of any two members of a family—husband and wife—brother and sister—father and son—and each person may make deposits and draw cheques independently of the other. Many families are putting their savings in a Joint Savings Account, on which interest is paid.

FROM HIRED MAN TO PREMIER

The Farmers' Victory in Alberta.

By Nellie L. McInnes, M.L.A. Elect.
The Survey magazine of Sept. 1 prints as its feature article the following contribution by Nellie McInnes, one of the members-elect for Edmonton in the Alberta legislature. The article is headed "From Hired Man to Premier."

It all began so quietly and innocently as a summer morning, when the scent of clover filled the air and the sun shone on the fields. The farmer and the city dweller, the worker and the idle, the rich and the poor, all seemed to be united in a common purpose. Every person who had a grain of sympathy for the farmer, and every person who had a grain of sympathy for the city dweller, were united in a common purpose. A similar one, and so it was a logical thing for the farmers to get together.

There were three problems bearing heavily upon them. They wanted better railway facilities to move their products, and a wider market for them, and they wanted a revision of the tariff. The Farmers in all this had the strong support and help of every class of citizen. What concerns them concerned the banker, the store-keeper, the real estate man, the baker, the blacksmith, the teacher and the minister, and so every one was interested.

The conventions which were held one year in Calgary and the next year in Edmonton, were looked upon as an event in each city and brought out large audiences of the city people. The United Farmers held their conventions at the same time, and in the joint sessions there were many able questions discussed with much intelligence that the resolutions of these meetings were a powerful factor in shaping the opinions of the whole country. The first definite demand for woman suffrage from a man's organization came from the United Farmers' association. Their attitude on the liquor question was reaffirmed from year to year. They called for prison reform, better hospital facilities, medical inspection of schools, a reform of the banking system. Among their speakers each year were the cabinet ministers, who laid before them their plans for the future and received their suggestions. At the last convention there was a unanimous expression of approval of these plans and the greatest cordiality existed between the Farmers and the government.

This friendliness was cemented by the fact that more than thirty members of the legislature were farmers, and the premier himself was a member of the local in his constituency, where he has operated a farm for years. The government had given a grant to the organization each year, and a certain Sunday was set apart as U. F. A. Sunday. At which time leaders of the movement were asked to give addresses.

No one suspected that the Farmers were beginning to dream of political power—that is direct power. It was already recognized that they had tremendous influence with the government inasmuch as they were shaping public opinion, and the government had frequent conferences with their leaders. When in the house the question of being discussed of granting to the Imperial Oil company the privilege of putting a pipe line from Fort Norman. It was commonly believed that a wire of protest from the U. F. A. was the deciding factor in the government decision to revise the constitution.

It was further believed that the Farmers would be a strong factor in the next Dominion elections. Then came interest in the matters of tariff reform, better freight rates and more efficient handling of grain often resulted in discussion and in resolutions calling for the removal of all duties on agricultural implements and household machinery, in the setting of fair things about the people at Ottawa. The first effort to put any one's hands on the money was made by the Farmers. No one knew that they had any hostility to the provincial government or that they were being blamed for the hard conditions under which the farmer was laboring.

The Farmers were being severely censured by a certain element in the cities for doing too much for the farmer, and the Farmers were blamed for the hard conditions under which the farmer was laboring.

new minister of agriculture. There is one woman member, Mrs. Walter Parry, an Englishwoman of splendid ability, who has, ever since she came to the province, taken an active part in its affairs. She has been the president of the U. F. A., the women's organization, corresponding to the U. F. A. and was, therefore, the logical woman to fill such a position. The premier and the attorney general, Mr. Brodie, of Calgary, were not candidates for the cabinet, but it was hoped that the premier would accept a seat in the cabinet and continue in his position as attorney general. It is the opinion of everyone expressing an opinion that he has made a wise selection. For his part, the premier has no objection to the cabinet, and it is quite certain that he would not have accepted it.

PROBLEMS FACING THE FARMERS

There is considerable apprehension in the minds of the people, however, as to the future of the province for the Farmers have expressed the opinion that all railways that are not operated by the government. Neither the new government will have their hands full giving relief to the farmers, are so long it is reckoned that there are "six weeks of sunshine in the month of July." Will the new government be big enough to see the possibilities of the north?

One of the causes for the turn in popular favor, resulting in the defeat of the Stewart administration was the poor enforcement of the liquor act. The Farmers have always been strong prohibitionists, and the hope that they would be able to give a better measure of law enforcement as a reward for their many votes. The new premier has made a very popular pronouncement on this and says that the government will formulate a new policy and give rigid enforcement—all of which is very disquieting to the gun-ship gentlemen who were planning to relieve Alberta's thirst by devoting means. It is the general opinion that the thirty ones, or they who would turn their backs on the Farmers, but they—the Farmers—may find it a far more difficult matter actually to enforce the act than it is to sit in convention and ensure the former government for not so doing.

Another problem facing the Farmers' government is going to be the adjustment of the labor difficulties of the province, which are many. The Dominion Labor party was endorsed by the U. F. A. though it was quite noticeable that the Farmers did not vote for the D. L. P. candidates when they had the opportunity. This situation arose only in the cities in which there were country polls and a Farmers' candidate running. The new cabinet has in it one Labor man—Alex Ross, of Calgary—who will be minister of public works and of labor too.

Indeed, from what we know of the farmer, he is not favorably disposed toward shortening the hours of labor. His work is seasonal, he fights against time, and it is hard to imagine a farmer with his wheat sheafing an enthusiastic ally endorsing the 44-hour week. The worst thing the farmer has had to put up with has been the inefficiency of some of those workers who demand the high scale of wages now prevailing. It is well known that on a farm one man is often as good as two or three, according to experience, willingness, and efficiency. It does not seem reasonable to expect the farmer to be strong on the standardization of wages. There, it is hard to understand how a coalition of farmer and labor will work out.

The Farmers' victory in Ontario and the working out of the coalition there was no doubt a factor in the Alberta situation. It gave the suggestion, and the abolition of the last few years have made the farmers disheartened and ready to oppose any government which would do wrong it is only natural for those in authority to be blamed for it. The average voter also will make good trouble to distinguish between the dominion and the provincial government, and the abolition of the Wheat board was often cited as one of the misdeeds of the Stewart government, although it was in fact no more than to do with it than had the Edmonton school board.

The attitude of the provinces is one of keenest interest. It is easy to see that the Farmers are anticipated in the galleries of the house at the coming session. The general opinion is that there is a piece of work ahead of the new government, and this hope is everywhere expressed that they will make good in the full flush of their victory. The Farmers will now put candidates in every Dominion riding, and it is the belief of many that the next government at Ottawa will be a farmer-labor government.

The Farmers will now put candidates in every Dominion riding, and it is the belief of many that the next government at Ottawa will be a farmer-labor government.

Indeed, from what we know of the farmer, he is not favorably disposed toward shortening the hours of labor. His work is seasonal, he fights against time, and it is hard to imagine a farmer with his wheat sheafing an enthusiastic ally endorsing the 44-hour week. The worst thing the farmer has had to put up with has been the inefficiency of some of those workers who demand the high scale of wages now prevailing. It is well known that on a farm one man is often as good as two or three, according to experience, willingness, and efficiency. It does not seem reasonable to expect the farmer to be strong on the standardization of wages. There, it is hard to understand how a coalition of farmer and labor will work out.

The Farmers' victory in Ontario and the working out of the coalition there was no doubt a factor in the Alberta situation. It gave the suggestion, and the abolition of the last few years have made the farmers disheartened and ready to oppose any government which would do wrong it is only natural for those in authority to be blamed for it. The average voter also will make good trouble to distinguish between the dominion and the provincial government, and the abolition of the Wheat board was often cited as one of the misdeeds of the Stewart government, although it was in fact no more than to do with it than had the Edmonton school board.

The attitude of the provinces is one of keenest interest. It is easy to see that the Farmers are anticipated in the galleries of the house at the coming session. The general opinion is that there is a piece of work ahead of the new government, and this hope is everywhere expressed that they will make good in the full flush of their victory. These flowers will eat insects.

Certain plants eat flesh.

A good many of these flesh-eating plants belong to the family of Bladderworts, which are plants that live in water and have little bladders, which in springtime rise to the surface of the water.

These bladders have one entrance, which is closed by valves and can only be entered from the outside. Insects alight on these bladders and force their way through this entrance. Once inside they are prisoners without the slightest hope of escape. They may live for hours or days, writes Miss Agnes Gibber in "The Garden of Earth," but finally they die and are digested by the plant.

There is another plant of the flesh-eating species, which is found in Northern Europe and North America. It is known as the Sundew, and in this case the leaves are the trap for catching the gnat-like insect.

The leaves lie on the ground and are like a trough, and very sticky. As soon as the insect gets on to one of them it is firmly held by the sticky matter.

The edges then begin to turn up and eventually curl over the victim and imprison it. A day later, if the insect be small, the leaf uncurls, having digested the prey.

At the inauguration of the French train at Place Viger, Montreal. Amongst the officials shown in this photo are Prime Minister Meighen, Senator C. P. Beaubien, Senator Smoot, Senator Dandurand, Count d'Arnaud, president of the train; M. de Lalande, vice-consul of France in Montreal; Mr. E. Hebert, of the C.P.R., and Mr. Morrison, of the C.N.R.

Geo. Clemenceau's head by Rodin, the famous sculptor, which is on exhibit in the French train.

A Made-in-France exhibition train is now touring Canada over the Canadian Pacific Railway. It was opened at the C. P. R. Place Viger Station, Montreal, on August 29th, amongst those present being Premier Arthur Meighen, Mayor Marin of Montreal, and Senator C. P. Beaubien, who organized the bringing of the French exhibition goods to Canada and the tour of the train throughout the Dominion.

The object of the train carrying French goods is to promote cordial, social, and commercial relations, reciprocally advantageous to both countries.

The train consists of a baggage car, eight exhibition cars, a tourist, a diner, and two sleeping cars. The eight coaches of the train carry goods representative of:

(1) The intellectual development of France;

(2) Industries, commerce and tourism;

(3) French styles;

(4) Leather industries;

(5) Chemical goods, perfumery;

(6) Instruments of various kinds, electrical goods, toys;

(7) Agriculture, horticulture, food;

(8) Jewellery, objects of art, clocks, watches.

But this list only gives an idea of the hundreds of things on exhibition.

In the tour of the Dominion the train will travel a total of 7,000 miles.

During the four days which the train remained in Montreal it was visited by thousands of interested persons. It was a huge success at the Toronto Fair and is attracting large numbers everywhere it goes through the country.

A member of the staff of the Canadian Government commercial intelligence service is travelling with the train, partly in order to study the results obtained from a business point of view. The information gleaned is to be used in fixing up the trainload of Canadian products which it started to be sent on to tour France and probably the United Kingdom and other European countries.

The new cabinet, Herbert Greenfield, is a man 55 years of age, who came to Canada from England, and was a hired man on a farm in Ontario for some time, and then came to Alberta and homesteaded. He is a man of rare good judgment and an excellent speaker. There was considerable disappointment over the refusal of President Woods of the U. F. A. to accept the premiership. It was that as he was the man who had started the agitation and had neared the organization which had defeated the government, he should assume the responsibility. But those who know both of the men declare that Mr. Greenfield is by far the more practical man of the two. Mr. Woods will continue to direct the affairs of the U. F. A.

The new cabinet is made up of British or Canadian-born citizens, thus contradicting the rumors consistently circulated that the new agrarian movement in Canada is anti-British in character. The members are all bona fide farmers except the attorney-general, who is a lawyer.

There is but one man who ever sat in a parliament before. He is George Hoodley, once the leader of the Conservative opposition. Mr. Hoodley is now minister of agriculture. There is one woman member, Mrs. Walter Parry, an Englishwoman of splendid ability, who has, ever since she came to the province, taken an active part in its affairs. She has been the president of the U. F. A., the women's organization, corresponding to the U. F. A. and was, therefore, the logical woman to fill such a position. The premier and the attorney general, Mr. Brodie, of Calgary, were not candidates for the cabinet, but it was hoped that the premier would accept a seat in the cabinet and continue in his position as attorney general. It is the opinion of everyone expressing an opinion that he has made a wise selection. For his part, the premier has no objection to the cabinet, and it is quite certain that he would not have accepted it.

PROBLEMS FACING THE FARMERS

There is considerable apprehension in the minds of the people, however, as to the future of the province for the Farmers have expressed the opinion that all railways that are not operated by the government. Neither the new government will have their hands full giving relief to the farmers, are so long it is reckoned that there are "six weeks of sunshine in the month of July." Will the new government be big enough to see the possibilities of the north?

One of the causes for the turn in popular favor, resulting in the defeat of the Stewart administration was the poor enforcement of the liquor act. The Farmers have always been strong prohibitionists, and the hope that they would be able to give a better measure of

THE U. F. A. CANDIDATE

In selecting the candidate to represent the U.F.A. in the coming Federal election, the convention in Stettin last week did a good day's work. Alfred Speakman is a man of good sound moral convictions and his influence has always been on the side of sound moral and social reform.

Mr. Speakman comes of good old British stock, and is a worthy son of one of the men whose devotion to the U.F.A. cause has made the organization what it is today. Wherever the history of the U.F.A. is recorded in the years to come, the name of the late James Speakman will be found high up on the honor roll of its pioneers.

The candidature of Alfred Speakman gives the editor of The News special pleasure from a personal standpoint. Coming to Alberta 31 years ago, the same year that the editor came, Alfred was our nearest neighbor to the south during our residence in the Horn Hill district. The editor is prepared to vouch for his good qualities as a neighbor and a friend.

Whatever criticisms this paper may consider it necessary to make regarding the policies that Mr. Speakman may advocate as the candidate of the U.F.A., The News will always have the most kindly feeling toward the candidate himself. We have not always agreed with him politically in the past, but we like him just the same.

The News congratulates Mr. Speakman on the confidence that has been placed in him by his fellow members of the U.F.A. and also congratulates the U.F.A. on its wisdom in selecting such a good candidate.

WHAT WILL DR. CLARK DO?

"Canada is bigger than any class." This is the way Dr. Clark summed up the political issues to The News over the Long Distance Telephone Monday evening. The Doctor was home on his farm, and the probability is that he will be heard from in no uncertain tones at an early date.

Dr. Clark was billed to deliver an address to the Medical Society of Calgary last night. On the other hand, "Class Consciousness and Paternalism." He no doubt devoted some attention to the political questions on that occasion.

With the U.F.A. convention already held, and the Liberal convention coming on Friday, the line-up for the election is fast assuming definite form. Another week will probably see the announcement of the election date, which is now freely predicted for December 7th, and will also give a pretty fair line-up on the candidates for this riding.

What will Dr. Clark do? We don't know just what, but we venture to say he will make it hot for somebody.

PAY YOUR TAXES

The City of Red Deer is making an urgent appeal to the ratepayers to shoulder their share of the city's burden without further delay. While not usually regarded as a popular pastime, the payment of taxes is a patriotic duty that cannot be brushed aside lightly.

The city needs the money to keep the schools open, to maintain the city services and to meet the civic obligations. The city has incurred expenditures in the past on the strength of guarantees made by the ratepayers when they endorsed the various money bills. No citizen has the right to repudiate the promise that he made at the polls when he assumed his share of responsibility for the expenditures that were incurred.

Unfortunately there are some who cannot pay their taxes at present whatever they may be able to do in the future. The City Council has a suspicion, however, that there are some who are giving almost any other expenditure precedence over their obligations to the city.

The matter is urgent. The city must have the money and intends to take every reasonable means of getting it. Red Deer expects that every man will do his duty. If you have not already done so, the present duty is to pay your taxes. Don't dump your vacant lands back on the city. Carry on!

THE PREMIER'S APPEAL

"My appeal is not to any one class; my appeal is to the whole people, to every man and woman who wants to do right for this country, who wants to preserve and expand all our fields of endeavor. My appeal is to every one who breathes the spirit of the Dominion, who sounds the name 'Canadian' with pride and hope and love. Come, let us get together and engage the battle and show once more that Canada is resolved on her course, that she won't be turned or bent or daunted, that she is steadfast, strong and true."—Premier Meighen.

Calgary Albertan:
Dr. Clark's letters to Mr. Cramer are receiving more editorial attention by Canadian newspapers than any other subject these days. The Conservative newspapers are making Dr. Clark out as a champion saving the empire from "that man Wood of Missouri, who dominates the Farmer movement." The reactionary Liberals avoid very much the same course. The progressive Liberal papers, while objecting to government administration, regard the matter less seriously and object to it occupying the center of the political stage.

AMOS WILTON BACKS DR. CLARK

To the Editor of The News.
Dear Sir:
In my opinion Dr. Clark's action in breaking with the U.F.A. political party will meet with the approval of all of his old friends. We are not surprised at all—just glad. He could not stay with that narrow bunch; he is too big. He don't approve of "false bottoms" or "gentleman's agreements." If anyone wanted to "investigate" Dr. Clark, he would not call in the courts to stop them. He may have faults; he may not be infallible, but he is honest. There are no "false bottoms" in Dr. Clark, and it would appear he is on his way back to the liberal party where he can render his country a real service. We hope so. It is a good thing someone from the side of the righteous bunch of farmers has kicked over the traces. Dr. Clark has said now just what some of us old homesteaders sons of the soil have been saying over since the latter day political salutes started out. No one paid any attention to us, but when "Red Michael" opens up, everyone sits up and takes notice.

My opinion of a man or a bunch of men who declare with a clear voice that they and they alone are honest and capable of governing the country in the interest of all, is about the same as I have of a man who pretends to be very pious, goes to church every Sabbath, takes the sacrament, rushes through storm and snow and mud to the polls to vote for some foolish, autocratic, drastic amendment to the prohibition act, and then straightaway goes home and "makes home brew" or "ribsaw wine" or the delegate in the U.F.A. convention who shouts for prohibition and waits on a doctor on his way home for a cry.

Mr. Editor, what Canada needs today is men, real men; men without false bottoms; and there are hundreds of them in the U.F.A. I mean in the old parental body. They are not making a big bow, but they are there just the same, and they intend to stand by Canada and Canadian institutions. They will vote right, if given a chance. They don't want revolution; they don't wish to upset every existing phase of one government and start something new. We want better government, of course we do, but not revolution. We always think of Russia when we hear of smashing the governments, and starting new ones.

What we can't understand is why Dr. Clark ever got mixed up with that narrow, selfish, class-conscious bunch. The Doctor is a brilliant man, and educated man, an experienced man. Why was he fooled when we dull, uneducated, inexperienced, hay-seeds at home could see through the fallacious movement at the beginning? Well, thanks to goodness, it has reached its height. Its momentum may carry it to power at Ottawa, but from now on it is on the slide downward.

The foundation of the party was selfishness and ambition among the leaders; they wanted office and some have got it. There is not the least doubt in the world that Dr. Clark could have been elected in at least some place in Alberta if he could have narrowed himself down so as to fit in to compare with the other leaders, but the Doctor doesn't care to grow little. When like him wish to grow bigger, and he would not swallow his "principle as the price of place," written cannons be said about all of the U.F.A. leaders. We all know some of them did not want to lead the U.F.A. into party politics. They fought against it for a long time, but at last they yielded. They do not seem to measure up to Dr. Clark. They would not sacrifice his principles for the premiership of Canada.

You are sure for a sane and safe government. AMOS WILTON.

REGRETS ACTION OF DR. CLARK

IF IT KEEPS HIM OUT OF PARLIAMENT

To the Editor of The News.
Red Deer, Alta.

Sir—
Dr. Clark's recent emphatic gesture and the consequent correspondence with Mr. Cramer has called forth considerable comment all over the country, and is of particular interest to the people of the constituency which he has represented so long and so ably in the Federal House.

But I find myself unable to understand the reason for this break with the National Progressives, with whom Dr. Clark aligned himself when he left the seats of the Unionists. Any protest against class domination is laudable enough at this time, and if received with applause by the people would be an indication that they were at last becoming wise to the political game which has been played so astutely for many years in Canada as elsewhere. As a matter of fact, have we had anything else but class domination in political politics and the election of the affairs of the Dominion for the past half century? And, judging by the recent utterance of Mr. Meighen at Portage la Prairie, one man at least considers such a state of affairs devoutly to be desired as a permanent one.

I cannot however bring myself to see that the recent political happenings, first in Ontario, then in Medicine Hat and Alberta, indicate any readiness on the part of the people to pass bosses at this time. It indicates, I submit, that there is growing disbelief in that ancient superstition, so well sustained by the newspapers, that politicians can be trusted to manage the affairs of the people.

The farmers are not politicians—not yet—and we have shown ourselves ready in Alberta to give them the benefit of the doubt as to what they may become in the future. Moreover, their platform is by no means purely agrarian. There is hayseed on it to be sure, but there are other things; and it is these other things which appeal to independent thinkers. It is a platform which I myself a liberal in politics (note the word is spelt without a capital), and an idealist in philosophy, I sort of cast to a political program which has some idealism in it. For the same reason I am not a member of the English Labor party enunciated in 1919. When Mr. Meighen said the other day, when announcing the coming election, that it would be fought out on one issue only, namely, the tariff, I for one felt a sense of resentment at being dictated to as to my political goal. Recently he has reiterated the statement in his Portage la Prairie address, "with oaths and curses," onths of fidelity to the god-of-things-as-they-are, and curses for the Gr's and the Agrarians.

It must be clearly understood, the speeches of Mr. Meighen notwithstanding, and the speeches of Mr. King notwithstanding, and all the other speeches which are to be made in the present campaign notwithstanding, that there is very much more before us than a fiscal policy, that "other you penetrate to the heart of the present political movement. It is essentially moral and spiritual, a revolt against the past domination by the interests, and an assertion of emancipation from the political status quo."

The movement is largely unconscious and inarticulate, and is for that reason not the less but the more likely to succeed. The remarkable phenomenon of the recent Alberta election was that the farmers made little or no attempt to discuss their aims before the people, they simply presented a platform of their little known program to the people, and achieved incredible victory, not in the political status quo, but in the towns and cities also. The same was true in Medicine Hat. It is because the politicians of both the old parties fear this unconscious movement among the people because it voices a moral protest, that they are making such hysterical attempts to keep the tariff issue before the country. You can argue on that.

I am not a prophet nor the son of a prophet, but I am reminded that among meteorologists in the United States there is a doctrine that all weather has its origin in Medicine Hat, and therein is contained a parable. He that hath ears to hear, let him hear!

Coming back to where I began, I can only express regret if Dr. Clark, whom I have long admired for his staunch liberalism and his high character, should place himself in such a position that he will not be a member of the Parliament of Canada after the coming election.

Yours very truly,

CHAS. H. HUESTIS.

FARMER CANDIDATES IN EVERY PROVINCE

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—In every province of the Dominion farmers' candidates will be entered in the federal election, and in the Dominion as a whole yesterday, and from reports received it was stated that a number of rural ratings will be contested by farmers.

In Ontario, every rural riding is most sure to have a farmer candidate. Of the 84 seats farmers will contest between 67 and 70.

The U.F.O. prophets estimate the number of the agrarian delegation from the prairies at 35 members, forecast that they will win some seats in British Columbia, and also predict that Ontario will elect 60 farmer candidates, although the association is not yet affiliated with the Canadian Council of Agriculture.

In the maritime provinces, the farmers anticipate that every province will return some Progressive standard-bearers.

cell of Agriculture to form a pool for the marketing of grain, with a view to cutting out the speculator and bringing the consumers' price nearer to the producers' price.

(3) That we urge upon the various departments of education the desirability of securing as great a uniformity as possible in the system of education and the training of teachers throughout Canada and to this end we urge the establishment of a Dominion bureau of education.

In regard to this resolution, P. H. Thibault, the Inspector of the Stetler division, was called upon to express his opinion. He endorsed the resolution and deplored the fact that when he wanted to obtain data on educational matters he had to send to Washington, there being no means of obtaining statistics at Ottawa.

(4) Demanding that the provincial government allot a portion of the federal grant for province highways to be used in bringing to completion province roads already under construction.

(5) Demanding the nationalization of the banking system.

(6) That the federal government be asked to enact legislation compelling all railway companies to carry a swing out on all passenger trains for the convenience of sick people travelling.

FOURTEEN NOMINATED

The resolutions being completed, the next order of business, which was the nomination of a candidate, was taken up. A motion for nominations from the floor was carried, and a record number of fourteen nominees were placed before the convention. The following were the nominees: H. A. Malcolm, Innisfail; C. H. Richardson, Bowden; A. Speakman, Penhold; A. Scott, Gadsby; T. B. Millar, Sylvan Lake; A. Cochrane, Stettler; J. D. Taylor, Valley; M. D. Doughty, Great Bend; R. O. Gorman, Westwood; A. C. Johnson, Oliver; P. Karamah, Oils; J. H. Cameron, H. S. Searomona, Donald; O. Cameron, Elmore.

INTRODUCING CANDIDATES

When nominations were completed, the next order of business, which was the nomination of a candidate, was taken up. A motion for nominations from the floor was carried, and a record number of fourteen nominees were placed before the convention. The following were the nominees: H. A. Malcolm, Innisfail; C. H. Richardson, Bowden; A. Speakman, Penhold; A. Scott, Gadsby; T. B. Millar, Sylvan Lake; A. Cochrane, Stettler; J. D. Taylor, Valley; M. D. Doughty, Great Bend; R. O. Gorman, Westwood; A. C. Johnson, Oliver; P. Karamah, Oils; J. H. Cameron, H. S. Searomona, Donald; O. Cameron, Elmore.

Another speaker, the fourteenth on the list, claimed that her candidate, in addition to being possessed of all the virtues attributed to the other men, he was good looking.

Mr. Donald Cameron, who was the provincial member for Innisfail, drew his name on the grounds that he was under obligation to his province, and must discharge that duty.

Mr. McConnell, of Nevis, also refused to allow his name to go before the convention.

SPEECHES BY CANDIDATES

From 5 o'clock to 5:30 was taken up by speeches from the respective candidates. The apostles of the new political faith aired their views before the delegates. They varied a good deal in the points selected by them for emphasis but it was significant that all without exception refused to allow Mr. Meighen to say what the issue was in this election. While they all admitted that the issue was an issue, candidate after candidate declared that the supreme issue in this election was the overthrow of the party system and the election to parliament of representatives of efficient group democratically organized.

Judging from the sentiments expressed on this question it is safe to say that neither at Red Deer is concerned Mr. Meighen will not be allowed to state the issue, and if he comes to Alberta it is altogether likely that he will find himself on the defensive in justification of autocratic partyism as against democratic group system.

P. L. Marsh, one of the nominees, put the matter tersely when he declared: "Our present member has been fighting group organizations for forty years, yet the small groups that control the economic and political life of Canada are more powerful now than when he began. Only when all the large democratic groups organize efficiently as the U.F.A. is organized will they be able to co-operate and secure control for the benefit of all the people."

BALLOTING FOR MEMBERS

The evening session opened at 8 and balloting began immediately on the names that were placed in nomination during the afternoon. While the balloting was being counted, Mrs. Ashdown rendered several violin solos beautifully and was accompanied by Mr. Flout, an octogenarian, whose fingers still retain their suppleness despite his years.

Just before the first ballot was cast a list of questions, prepared by a small number of delegation, was presented to the chairman with a request that candidates declare themselves in answer. Some of the questions were related to prohibition, place of birth and duration of membership in the U.F.A., also questions of policy such as child welfare, which would have necessitated long speeches. On the motion it was voted not to put these questions. The majority of the convention expressing impatience with the suggestion, one delegate going so far as to ironically propose that each candidate should be asked to declare himself on the question of the relative value of the theory of relativity and upon Bernard Shaw's meta-biological pentateuch "Back to Methusalem." Also S. G. Wells' view on Karl Marx' whiskers.

Mr. Alfred Speakman, of Penhold, was declared elected on the third ballot. The announcement was received with enthusiasm and the honours declared unanimous.

OVATION FOR MR. WOOD

President H. W. Wood was then called upon to address the convention. He received a great ovation indicative of the confidence in which he is held as leader of the organization. Mr. Wood gave a brief and lucid interpretation of economic group organization, answered Premier Meighen's speech and declared the issue to be one between partyism and democratically organized groups. He said that he was born in Missouri and that his activity was going to be a part of

Veteran of Civil War Still Hale and Hearty

GEORGE D. SHAW, Springfield, Mass.

"To say that I feel twenty-five years younger, twenty-five years healthier and twenty-five years stronger—express what I feel. I have never known any other way I can put it," said George D. Shaw, veteran of the Civil War, who now lives at 321 Walnut Street, Springfield, Mass.

"I am now seventy-eight years old and I don't hesitate to say: I have never known a medicine to equal Tanlac. For fifteen years I was subject to attacks of indigestion that were so bad at times I would have to lay up for a week or two. For a long time I lived on crackers and milk alone, as nothing else agreed with me.

"When I started on Tanlac I weighed only one hundred and seventeen pounds and my days were thought to be numbered. I've been so wonderfully built up, I now weigh one hundred and forty-three pounds and my stomach is as sound as a dollar. In fact, I believe I could eat the old army rations again without it hurting me in the least.

"If ever, miss a chance of saying a good word for Tanlac and I would like to urge the boys of the 'Sixties' who are not feeling right to give it a trial, for I am sure it would put them in line again just as it has me. For a man of my age to have no physical ailment, to be well and strong and enjoy life as he did twenty-five years ago, is certainly something to be thankful for, and there is nothing too good I can say for Tanlac."

Tanlac is sold in Red Deer by the Gaetz-Cornett Drug & Book Co., Ltd., and by leading druggists everywhere.

his campaign. "Well, I was really born in Missouri and I don't claim any credit for it, neither do I blame any body else for not being born there. Nobody would be born anywhere else than where he was born if he could help it," he declared, amid laughter and applause.

"DISASTER TO SOME PEOPLE
Mr. Wood dealt briefly with the premier's speech made at Portage and Nobody would be born anywhere else than where he was born if he could help it," he declared, amid laughter and applause.

"I agree with him if I interpret his interpretation of who the people are. The people, according to Mr. Meighen, means the Conservative party, and it is going to meet with disaster. But the farmers cannot meet with disaster, they have already met with it as a result of the policy of Mr. Meighen."

WHY NOT BE FRANK

Orange Sentinel, Toronto.

Replying to Michael Clark, Hon. T. A. Cramer says the Farmers' political party is not a class movement.

The aggressive grain growers of the prairies would tell Mr. Cramer that his talk is all bunk. They are out to capture the government of Canada. They believe that the laws as they stand do not work to the advantage of the grain growers, and they intend to make such changes as they believe to be necessary—in their own interest.

If that is the case what is all the row about? If all the farmers want is the application of progressive principles, they can attain that by dominating either one of the two regular parties.

Clearly the Farmers' party is a class movement. Not one farmer in a thousand would deny it. Then why Cramer that his talk is all bunk. They are out to capture the government of Canada. They believe that the laws as they stand do not work to the advantage of the grain growers, and they intend to make such changes as they believe to be necessary—in their own interest.

CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Then She Took "FRUIT-A-LIVES"
And His "Wet Feet Ever Since"

"For many years, I was a great sufferer from Indigestion, Constipation and Rheumatism. My stomach was weak and gave me constant distress, while Rheumatism in my joints made me almost a cripple, was treated by two different doctors but their medicine did me no good."

Then I tried "Fruit-a-Lives" and at once that fruit medicine helped me. Soon the Constipation and Indigestion began to go away, and in a few months entirely disappeared. For many years now, my health has been first class, and I attribute it to the use of "Fruit-a-Lives" which I take regularly."

GIRL MUST HAVE
750 OPERATIONS

Having already submitted to 250 skin-grafting operations, but still 750 more, Cecilia Starkey, 16 years old, of Jersey City, is smilingly facing the ordeal in St. Francis Hospital, where little prayers of thanks to the Jersey City Firemen who have saved her skin that she may live. According to the hospital surgeons, each individual bit of grafting has been successful, and they do not hesitate to say they believe the young patient, in the course of time, will be almost as good as over. "I expect it will take about 750 more grafting operations before the burned surface is renewed with healthy flesh," said a hospital surgeon, "but she is bearing up wonderfully—and with the sacrifice made by her brother, and his friends we expect soon to have her able to leave the hospital." The girl was fearfully burned about four months ago when a stove over which she was working exploded.

VETERANS ALARMED
OVER IMMIGRATION

Alarm is expressed by G.W.V.A. officials in other quarters at the steady influx of unaccompanied women immigrants from continental Europe and a proposal has been put forth that certain restrictions be made effective to curtail such immigration. It is understood the intention of the British immigration officials has been to encourage the emigration of unmarried women from England, where the recent crisis has made it difficult for women to be far in excess of the men. From examination of the sailing lists on recent transatlantic liners G.W.V.A. officials have noted the preponderance of unaccompanied women from continental European countries has been far in excess of those from the British Isles. This they believe is creating an unbalanced situation, especially in view of the fact that domestic servants of British birth are needed and are finding lucrative employment in Canada.

OCTOBER ROD AND GUN.

The October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada will be perused with great pleasure by all who are interested in the great outdoors. "Nova Scotia Fishing As It Is" appears in the October issue, a most interesting and fascinating, original way by Percy E. Nobbs. H. Mortimer Batten's story entitled "Banana, The Terrible," is an appealing nature and will prove of intense interest to both young and old. The October issue of Rod and Gun in Canada is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock.

Exports from Ireland exceeded her imports in 1918, 1919 and 1920 by 50 millions sterling. The boycott of Belfast by the rest of Ireland still continues.

BENALTO

Threshing in this district is progressing very favorably, with seven threshing outfits running full blast. The crops are turning out quite favorable in general. The record in wheat yield is an acre by 72. The wheat crop is looking with fifty-seven bushels to the acre; several others have run nine close but so far he is in the lead. Oats are turning out fair with a very good sample. Barley is also very good.

Quite a crowd gathered at Benalto Sunday afternoon to witness a miniature stampede staged by a number of the young men of the district. Several very rough horses were gathered together for the occasion and a very exciting afternoon was enjoyed. One of the riders received severe injuries by the horse throwing itself and rolling over the rider, and in its struggles striking him in the face with its head. Latest reports are very favorable for his early recovery.

Miss Bertha Boles spent Sunday with her parents at Evergreen. Miss Stewart, of Rocky Mountain House, who has been the guest of her cousin, Mrs. A. McPherson and Mrs. A. Duncan, returned home Monday.

The Electric rural telephone has been installed in the Alberta Pacific development and is being installed in the C.P.R. station in the course of a few days.

A petition is being circulated throughout the district asking the Provincial government not to include any part of ranges 5, 3 and 4, from the north to the south boundary, in the last hospital scheme, or in any hospital district, owing to financial conditions against it at the recent attempt. Reports from those circulating the petition state that practically every eligible voter is signing against this scheme.

Mr. Ted Bardwell, manager of the Wilson Lumber Co. yards here, is kept busy supplying the farmers with material for cranberries.

Messrs. Maddison & Son shipped in a car of oil on Monday for their clients. Mr. O. Wylie and his sisters spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Max Lightbourn, Diamond Valley.

Mrs. S. Anderson left for Montana to spend a month or so visiting friends. Mr. and Mrs. Kinna, Mrs. Jenkins and Mrs. Warren were week-end visitors to Red Deer.

Mr. Bert Riddell is visiting at Big Valley, and Mrs. Russell Riddell, of Rocky Mountain House, is visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Riddell, of the Mountain View hotel.

POVERTY-STRICKEN MUNSTER

(Belmont Weekly News)
It is a pity that the people who were deluded into subscribing to the American Fund for the Relief of Distress in Ireland have no opportunity of perusing the half-yearly report of the Munster and Leitrim Bank. As its name implies, the Bank carries on its business chiefly in the South, and much of it is transacted in the area "active operations." According to the report of the American Commission, Ireland is in the throes of poverty and we would naturally expect that the famine would be most acute in the province that has suffered most from "hostilities." And yet the report of the Munster and Leitrim Bank gives no hint of the existence of poverty. On the contrary, it proves that the South is in a condition of substantial prosperity, and in proof of this we need only point to the fact that the amount of deposit and current accounts with the bank has increased during the year by the enormous sum of five million pounds.

ARE YOUR TAXES PAID?

The Matter is Urgent

THE Mayor and Council of the City of Red Deer herewith wish to set before the Ratepayers who have not paid their 1921 taxes, or are in arrears for other years, the urgent necessity that they make arrangements to pay the same, either in bulk or in successive partial payments, at the earliest possible date in order that the City and the School affairs may be carried on. The Council has been advised that its limit of bank accommodation has been reached and that its only recourse to save the City's credit and carry on its affairs is to collect the taxes owing and apply them to the City's needs. With this end in view, the Council and the Public School Board are organizing a collection drive, and the Aldermen and School Trustees propose to meet the ratepayers who have not paid their taxes and lay the City's needs before them at an early date.

The difficulties confronting all municipalities, in Western Canada more especially, are not so much due to the great increase in the cost of services since pre-war days, as to the collapse of the land prices and land assessment on which the City's debt for city utilities and city equipment were largely based and the failure to collect taxes on speculative properties, nearly all unoccupied lands. The concentration of population and traffic in an urban centre entails the constant surfacing and maintenance of wide main streets in good order, and provision for carrying away the drainage; it entails the construction and maintenance of miles of sidewalks; it demands the protection of the police and the firemen day and night; it requires provision for public health and provision against infectious diseases and epidemics; it calls for the lighting of the streets of the whole town for safety and protection at night; it maintains necessary public buildings and services and protects them by insurance and necessary upkeep; it has charge of the cemetery, it assists the Public Library, the Hospital, the Fair and other community organizations; it provides sports grounds for the young people; it has installed widespread systems of sewerage and water service; it educates the boys and the girls of the city and district. No private concern gives its patrons as much service for the money expended as the municipality does for the taxes it levies.

The cost of the public services of sewerage, water and fire system, fair grounds, public buildings and schools, hospital, street, sidewalk and bridge construction are spread over terms of twenty and thirty years, and the interest and principal annually are practically one-third of the total levy; the schools going pretty close to half this year. It costs on an average through the Province $75 each year to give schooling alone to a boy or girl.

The citizens can congratulate themselves on the careful and efficient administration which has brought the City through these trying years. The last ten years have been the most trying Red Deer will ever see in this generation, but it has stood the strain well, and in the growth of the Province in the future it will have a fair share.

The Mayor and Council appeal to the Ratepayers affected to make special efforts to meet this civic duty and to play fair with their fellow-citizens in meeting their share of the civic call.

The money must be raised if the schools are to be kept open and the City is not to go into default. The Council believe the money can be raised out of the amount unpaid and they appeal to those who have not paid their taxes to make arrangements to pay them at once. The Council does not wish to adopt any extreme measures unless it is forced to, but it is determined to see that the city and school services are carried on and that those who have loyally paid their taxes shall be protected in the carrying on of the services for which they've paid.

The following tables set forth—

- The estimates for 1921 and the expenditures so far made for both city and schools.
- The city requirements for the last four months of 1921.
- The 1921 taxes levied and collected, and the balance outstanding.
- The Public School requirements for the last four months of 1921.
